

Shakespeare and Philosophy

What Shakespeare Knows, Philosophy Must Learn

Paul A. Kottman

The New School for Liberal Studies, New York

Some Reflections on Shakespearean Political Philosophy

Yasunari Takada

The University of Tokyo & UTCP

Moderator:

Shoichiro Kawai

The University of Tokyo

Paul Kottman is an associate professor of comparative literature at the New School for Liberal Studies, New York, and the author of Tragic Conditions in Shakespeare: Disinheriting the Globe (The Johns Hopkins University Press, 2009) and Politics of the Scene (Stanford University Press, 2008)

Friday 16th December, 2011, 16:30-18:30
Collaboration Rm.4, Bldg. 18, Komaba Campus

sponsored by
Department of Cultural Representations, The University of Tokyo and UTCP

co-sponsored by the Shakespeare Society of Japan