

International Workshop in Komaba

The present and the future of the philosophy of technology

From a Japanese perspective

March 9 and 10, 2010

Room 208, 2nd Floor, Building 14, Komaba Campus, University of Tokyo

☆Program☆

March 9 (Tuesday), 2010

13:00 Junichi Murata (The University of Tokyo)

Introduction: Philosophy of Technology and Japanese Philosophy

14:00 Kiyotaka Naoe (Tohoku University)

Technological Mediation and Japanese Philosophy of Technology

(15:20-15:30 Break)

15:30 Toshihiro Suzuki (Shibaura Institute of Technology)

Philosophy of Expert Skill

16:30 Andrew Feenberg (Simon Fraser University, Vancouver, Canada)

Japanese Philosophy of Technology: The Contribution of Kiyoshi Miki

March 10 (Wednesday), 2010

10:00 Ching-yuen Cheung (Chinese University of Hong Kong)

Miki Kiyoshi's Philosophy of Technology

11:00 Katsuya Akitomi (Kyoto Institute of Technology)

On the possibility of discussing technology from the standpoint of Keiji Nishitani's religious philosophy

(12:30-14:00 Lunch)

14:00 Takehiko Hashimoto (The University of Tokyo)

On the Essence of Standardization:

Setting Structural Standards in Prewar Japanese Aeronautics and Its Technological Implications

15:00 Alain-Marc Rieu (University of Lyon 3, France)

A Discourse on Digital Method

(16:20-16:30 Break)

16:30 Kohji Ishihara (The University of Tokyo)

The Synthetic Approach as a Roboethical Issue: Japanese Robotics and Human Understanding

18:00-19:00 Discussions

Organized by

The University of Tokyo Center for Philosophy (UTCP), and

Grants-in-Aid for Scientific Research (KAKENHI): 21320003 (Junichi Murata)