

CREATIVE WORK & HUMAN WELL-BEING

Does Using AI Creatively Make Work Worse?

Speaker: Matthew J. Dennis (TU Eindhoven)

Date and time: Tue. April 1st, 2025

Venue: EAA Seminar Room (Room 11) Bldg. 101, the University of Tokyo Komaba Campus I

Dr. Matthew J. Dennis is Assistant Professor in the Ethics of Technology at Eindhoven University of Technology in the Netherlands, specializing in the philosophy of digital technologies. He is currently researching the ethics of autonomy, fairness, and well-being, and is an editor for Oxford University Press's AI & Society Interactions Series (AI for Research & Education), as well as co-chair of the IEEE Ethical Assurance of Data-Driven Tech for Mental Healthcare Industry Connections Program.

For more information and the presentation abstract, please visit our website:

Organization: The University of Tokyo Center for Philosophy

Co-organization: East Asian Academy for New Liberal Arts, U-Tokyo

